concerning measures to promote the development of agriculture in Yugoslavia

In the period 1981-1986 agricultural production in Yugoslavia swung considerably in volume terms. A steep rise in output was registered in 1982, 1984 and 1986, while in 1983 and 1985 agriculture production declined. Between 1981-1986 agricultural output grew at an average rate of 1.3 per cent annually, which was below the projected growth rate of agriculture.

During the same period there were no radical changes in output volume patterns. In aggregate output livestock breeding accounted for 43 per cent, and in crop farming grain production took about 60 per cent.

The pattern of the social product in the agricultural sector is charaterized by a large share of the private sector (close to 70 per cent) and a rising share of the public sector (around 27 per cent in 1981 and some 31 per cent in 1985). Marked swings and a slowed growth of the private sector in particular have adversely affected the growth of overall agricultural production in Yugoslavia.

Within the framework of the objective of increasing the volume of aggregate output, in particular in the manufacturing sector, which would meet the domestic demand and ensure the projected levels of supply for export purposes, particular attention is being given to livestock breeding through:

- agricultural loans to provide incentives for building stables, buying breeding animals, machine tools and other implements for raising farm production;
- agricultural loans for buying young slaughter animals and animal feedingstuffs;
- subsidized interest rates on loans intended for breeding bovine animals and feeding milsch cows in contractual production;

- provision of subsidies on the milk sold to the public sector within the framework of the republics.

In addition, the dairy sector provides free of charge refrigerating equipment to all producers supplying larger quanties of milk, and construct selling posts provided with refrigerating equipment for producers supplying smaller quantities of milk. The dairies provide also producers with breeding heifers on credit. The producers pay back the loan by giving back the heifers in 3 to 5 years, during which time they supply the milk to the dairies financing them.

1. Prices

The prices of agricultural produce in Yugoslavia are formed on the marketplace as a result of demand and supply. Until 1985 the Federal Government determined the tentative levels of both producer and selling prices for 15 basic agricultural products. These levels served as a guide in setting the market prices of those products. Since 1985 tentative prices are no longer determined, only the support prices.

The support prices are prescribed for wheat and rye, maize, rice in husk, sugar beet, sunflower, soya beans, rape seed, raw tobacco, raw cotton, breeding bovine animals, meat swines, sheep, broilers, wool and milk.

The purpose of support prices is to ensure long-term economic interest of producers in increasing the agreed levels of production of basic agricultural produce. These prices are set till 15 September each year for the succeeding year. They are corrected in the first half of the year for which they have been prescribed, in order to bring them in line with the increase of prices for agricultural inputs and other prices.

The level of price support is dependent on price movements in products which are utilized in agricultural production and on price relationships in which first-class wheat prices are a determining factor.

Price support is provided only for market production agreed in advance and only when market prices are reduced to the level of price support.

In addition, price support serves as a basis for determining credit lines from primary issue and as a basis for setting the prices of staple foods.

The prices for basic foods, such as flour, milk, meat, sugar, vegetable oils, rice, have always been controlled by the Federal Government. It was only in mid-1986 that the prices for a number of food items were allowed to adjust to the conditions prevailing in the market. Presently, the Federal Government controls the prices of semi-white flour and bread made out of that flour, the prices of certain categories of pigmeat and bovine meat as well as prices of vegetable oils, sugar and pasteurized milk.

2. Subsidies and premiums

At the federal level subsidies are provided for supporting the prices of fertilizers, pesticides and herbicides and quality seeds. The supporting of prices for the above mentioned agricultural inputs was introduced in the second half of 1984, but until 1986 only fertilizer prices were supported in this way. In 1986 the prices of quality wheat seed and of rape seed too came under protection. Further, in 1987 money was provided for subsidizing the prices of fertilizers, pesticides, quality seeds and 15 farm crops and animal feeds.

The level of subsidy is determined in annual documents of the Federal Assembly. Thus, for example, in 1987 the subisidies for fertilizers, quality seeds and pesticides were 30 per cent, 20 per cent and 10 per cent respectively of the level of producer prices of these inputs.

Moreover, private farmers producing for the public sector are supplied with diesel fuel for agricultural machinery at prices which are lower than for other consumers. The lower prices of diesel fuel for those farmers are secured by a lower sales tax.

Republics and autonomous provinces too provide incentives for agriculture. These include premiums for promoting the production of certain argicultural products, subsidies on other inputs, buying premiums etc. All the republics and autonomous provinces grant premiums on milk. The levels of premimums on milk and of other incentives vary from republic to republic and from autonomous province to autonomous province. They depend on the interests and material and financial possibilities of individual republics and provinces.

3. Financing of agriculture and stocks

Incentives to agriculture are also provided by allocating the resources for financing the organized production and supplies of agricultural products and foods. The medium-term plan singles out the agricultural products and foods which are accorded priority in financing. For the 1986-1990 period these products include wheat, maize, sugar beet and sugar, oil seeds and unrefined oil, tobacco, rice, fattening of animals and milk production, meat and dairy product stocks, apple and grain supplies preserved in refrigerators, and wine kept in wine cellars.

The money for financing is provided from the funds of the commercial banks and from primary issue of the National Bank of Yugoslavia. The share of primary issue in financing particular products differs and is prescribed by the documents on credit and monetary policy every year. The resources originating from primary issue are provided to enterprises on more favourable terms that the resources originating from bank lending money. The interest rates on primary issue loans intended for production, stocks and supplies of some agricultural products are fixed at a lower rate than for the discounting rate (real positive interest rate).

In order to reduce the cost of interest on loans provided for agricultural production purposes, that cost is partially subsidized. The level of subsidy differs for individual products. It ranges from 10 per cent for crop production to 20 per cent for animal fattening and milk production.

EXPLANATORY NOTES

Yugoslavia does not apply measures under columns 13, 14, 19, 20 and 21 of the revised format (of Annex I). So, for technical reasons, these columns are excluded from the format.

All products are subject to TX* (Border tax adjustment), TX (Tax on imported goods) and TX (Customs record tax) under column 9. Therefore we indicated GATT documents containing the notifications of these measures (column 22) and GATT provisions and classification (column 23) only once, for the product CCCN No.01.01-Live horses. It is valid for all products subject to the above mentioned taxes. The legal bases for the above mentioned taxes are the following:

TX* - Border tax adjustment (The Law on border tax adjustment published in "Official Gazette of the SFRY", No.63/80; Decision defining list of goods subject to the border tax adjustment, for 1988 - published in "Official Gazette of the SFRY", No.87/87).

TX - The tax on imported goods (The Law on tax on imported goods - published in "Official Gazette of the SFRY", No.31/70; Decision on the tax on imported goods for 1988, published in Official Gazette of the SFRY", No.87/87).

TX - The customs record tax (The Customs law - published in "Official Gazette of the SFRY", No.10/76; Decision on the customs record tax for 1988, published in "Official Gazette of the SFRY", No.85/87).

The symbol SR is used for seasonal supplementary duty of 20% introduced by The Customs law published in "Official Gazette of the SFRY", No.10/76, and further regulated by The Decision on the seasonal supplementary duty levied on import of specific agricultural products, published in "Official Gazette of the SFRY", No.63/78.
