and, after the word "Netherlands", the following text:

"It should be pointed out however that the United States proposal, if accepted, would go further than the bilateral agreements already signed by the contracting parties, firstly in that it would give those agreements a multilateral character, and secondly in that it would extend their provisions to the British and French Zones which were outside the agreements. The Belgian delegation was in favour of such extension, as it would help to restore normal trade to a very important area of Europe".
