2022: Helping small businesses transition to a sustainable economy

As the urgency for action to address climate change increases, innovation by businesses of all sizes will be critical to achieve sustainability targets. Domestic and international supply chains represent an estimated 90 per cent of corporate emissions according to the World Economic Forum, and small businesses play an integral part. Finding ways to help reduce their carbon footprint and spotlighting sustainability innovations is the goal of the 2022 Small Business Champions initiative.

Goals of the Initiative

- Raise awareness among businesses and policymakers of the difficulties MSMEs encounter related to decarbonization, be it through lack of financial resources or limited awareness
- Highlight best practices that are helping small businesses to decarbonize their production and become more sustainable.
- Support small business' participation in international trade with a view towards addressing climate change and business resilience.

Call for proposals

The World Trade Organization (WTO) Micro, Small and Medium-Sized Enterprise Informal Working Group (MSME Group), in partnership with the International Chamber of Commerce (ICC) and the International Trade Centre (ITC), is calling for proposals that help small businesses to transition to more sustainable business practices and contribute to global decarbonization. Businesses, industry associations, chambers of commerce and non-governmental organizations are invited to submit proposals.

What kind of proposals are we looking for?

- Proposals can focus on awareness-raising campaigns, competitions, capacity building, training and mentoring programmes.
- Proposals should have a target completion date of within one year from initiation.
- Proposals should be designed to be delivered by the entity making the proposal and should not focus on WTO negotiations, or proposed changes to WTO rules.
- The ICC, ITC and the WTO MSME Group will use their networks to support and promote successful proposals.

How to submit proposals

Proposals are open to the businesses, industry associations, chambers of commerce and non-governmental organizations and should:

- detail the concept, aims, timelines and other information as appropriate.
