

Fred Stolle

Fred Stolle is the deputy director Forest and technical director land monitoring at the World Resources Institute's (WRI) in Washington DC, where he works since 2003. He is a co-founder of Global Forest Watch (GFW) and one of the initiators of the roundtable of sustainable oil palm (RSPO). He has been adjunct professorship teaching forest in international setting at the school for advance international studies (SAIS) at Johns Hopkins University.

He holds a MSc in biology and a PhD in Geography.