Oxford Commentaries on the GATT/WTO Agreements

Latest release: Trade Related Aspects of Intellectual Property Rights - A Commentary on the TRIPS Agreement, by Carlos Correa
Published March 2007
This book examines the obligations imposed on WTO Members in different fields of intellectual property, and thoroughly explores the flexibilities that they enjoy in implementing the Agreement. It discusses the interpretation of the Agreement’s provisions and the WTO jurisprudence already developed on certain aspects of the Agreement. It also includes a brief discussion on emerging issues such as protection of traditional knowledge, and on options for further developments e.g. copyright in a digital environment, and the relationship with competition law. It also takes into account recent developments in bilateral agreements and free trade agreements that contain TRIPS-plus standards of protection.

1. Max Planck Commentaries on World Trade Law

This volume gives a detailed account of the parameters for technical standards and measures seeking to protect health and environment. Included are commentaries on those provisions of GATT 1994 which are equally relevant in this context, namely Articles III, IX and XX. The article by article commentaries draw from a considerable body of case law and the work by the TBT and SPS Committee. Attention is given to substantive requirements as well as the necessary standard setting procedures. Apart from a thorough analysis of the relevant and most recent jurisprudence the commentary seeks to give answers to newly emerging problems, as for example genetically modified (GMO) foods.

2. Studies in International Trade Law

Latest release: Globalisation and Labour Rights - The Conflict Between Core Labour Rights and International Economic Law, by Christine Kaufmann
Published January 2007
In a world of work that has changed dramatically over the last few years, states see themselves confronted with new actors and conflicting international legal obligations. This book examines the tensions between core labour rights as defined by the International Labour Organisation, and the interests of international economic institutions (e.g. WTO, IMF, World Bank, OECD). It provides an analysis of the legal interactions between international regulations and state policy with regard to potential regulatory conflicts, at both the horizontal and vertical level. The study suggests a model of multilevel consistency as a way of reconciling the highly specialised and fragmented legal systems of core labour rights on the one hand, and trade liberalisation on the other, to form the coherent framework of a consistent legal order.

Services Trade and Development - The Experience of Zambia

By Aaditya Mattoo and Lucy Payton
Services are critical to Zambia’s overall economic performance and the well-being of its people, and the constraints on service sector development due to small markets and limited endowments could be alleviated by greater regional and global integration. International negotiations can be harnessed to deliver much-needed reform, but there is also a danger that unbridled mercantilism could produce outcomes that are antithetical to development. A key rationale for this volume was to ensure that policy makers and trade negotiators in a least developed country like Zambia are fully informed about both the opportunities for expanding trade in services - unilaterally, regionally, multilaterally and the domestic pre-conditions for successful services liberalization.

Announcing a NEW WTO Annual Publication...

World Tariff Profiles 2006

This new publication provides a comprehensive picture of bound and applied nominal tariff protection for some 150 countries and territories.

The information on each country's market access situation is presented in the form of summary tables which facilitate cross-country comparisons and in country pages with disaggregations by sectors and duty ranges. In addition, a section in the country pages highlights the market access conditions faced in major export markets. A special effort has been undertaken by ITC to convert nearly all of the non-ad valorem duties into ad valorem equivalents. The underlying methodological issues relating to this conversion as well as different aggregation methods for tariff averages and changes in tariff averages are discussed in an annex, which also provides all the technical notes.

Air Transport and the GATS 2000-2005

Prepared by WTO Secretariat

This special compilation describes air transport services from a regulatory and economic point of view, with a special focus on market access questions. Each volume contains original material and up-to-date insights, written on the basis of close cooperation with industry professionals.

The first two publications will be followed at the end of 2007-beginning of 2008 by several volumes containing a Quantitative Air Services Agreements Review (QUASAR), which will provide the first universal and detailed assessment of the degree of openness of the 2000 publicly available bilateral air services agreements and a measure of the traffic they cover. These volumes will be accompanied by a CD-ROM containing a search and visualization software.

2000-2005 In Review

This is the first volume of the «Air Transport and the GATS – 2000-2005 in Review» series, which will be published progressively in the course 2007 and 2008. It contains the documentation prepared by the WTO Secretariat for the WTO Membership in the framework of a quinquennial review process of the air transport sector. It deals with services «auxiliary» to air transport, namely maintenance repair and overhaul, airlines' ticket distribution, franchising, leasing, ground handling, airport management and air navigation services. These services represent all together hundreds of billions of dollars of turnover and hundreds of thousands of jobs, but they are very rarely dealt with in the academic literature, be it economic or legal. This publication is the second of several volumes in this compilation.
