WTO - Trade Remedies - Max Planck Commentaries on World Trade Law, 4
Edited by Rüdiger Wolfrum, Peter-Tobias Stoll & Peter-Tobias Stoll and Michael Koebele

In the decade since the establishment of the WTO, the great majority of disputes between member states resolved and decided through the dispute settlement system of the WTO arose in the field of trade remedies law, a fact which clearly shows the high demand by the trade community for the rule of law in this area. Responsive to such needs, the fourth volume encompasses the whole range of trade remedies regulation under the auspices of the WTO in the respective articles of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT) and the related multilateral agreements on trade in goods, i.e., Articles VI, XII, XIX GATT 1994; the Understanding on the Balance-of-Payments; the Agreement on Implementation of Article VI GATT 1994 (Anti-Dumping Agreement); the Agreement on Subsidies and Countervailing Duties; and the Agreement on Safeguards. Leading practitioners and scholars have gathered to provide an invaluable insight and easy access to the law on trade remedies in an article-by-article commentary approach.

The Fair and Equitable Treatment Standard in the International Law of Foreign Investment
Iona Tudor

The treatment of foreign investors and of their investments on the territory of a host State is often subject to a bilateral investment treaty (BIT) signed by the national State of the investors and the host State. These BITs usually contain a clause in which the two States offer fair and equitable treatment (FET) to the foreign investors on their territory. Moreover, this clause has become a norm of customary law, implying that investors may rely on it even outside the context of the BIT. Foreign investors whose rights under this clause have not been respected may bring the State in front of an international tribunal. This book analyses not only the conventional and customary framework of the FET clause but also its scope and all its applications in the existing case law.

Aid for Trade and Development
Edited By Dominique Njinkeu and Hugo Cameron

Following in the wake of the World Trade Organization’s engagement with Aid for Trade, this book brings together a range of perspectives around this emerging issue. The collection of articles in this volume presents many of the ideas elaborated through research conducted by International Lawyers and Economists Against Poverty (ILEAP) since 2005 and is intended to provide a basis for further study. Since many of the contributions on aid for trade to date have come from the North, the book looks to deepen the debate by forwarding voices and experiences from the South. The book traces the evolution of Aid for Trade from its beginnings and examines the global architecture, modalities, and costs associated with its implementation. Drawing on lessons from national and regional experiences, this book further explores ways in which Aid for Trade can both move forward and become a real tool for poverty reduction in beneficiary countries.

Free Trade Nation
Commerce, Consumption, and Civil Society in Modern Britain
Frank Trentmann

Free Trade was one of Britain’s defining contributions to the modern world. It united civil society and commerce, and gave birth to consumer power. In this book, Frank Trentmann shows how Free Trade contributed to the growth of democratic culture in Britain and how it fell apart.

For anyone interested in the current problem of globalization, this book offers a vivid and thought-provoking perspective on the success and failure of Free Trade. For champions of trade liberalization, it is a reminder that culture, ethics, and popular communication matter just as much as sound economics. Believers in Fair Trade, by contrast, will be surprised to learn that in the past it was Free Trade, not Fair Trade, that stood for democracy, justice, and peace.

Emerging Principles of International Competition Law
Chris Noonan

Many firms operate in complex legal environments where several States may regulate the same activity against a background of international law. International competition law has grown in importance as national economies have become more integrated, at the same time as national competition laws have proliferated and enforcement efforts have been strengthened. This system is beset with conflicts arising where States perceive that the way that another country does or does not apply its competition law adversely affects its interests. This book clarifies the nature and origin of these conflicts, and explores possible ways to reduce them. Noonan analyses the legal and policy issues associated with the control of restrictive business practices and anticompetitive mergers in international markets.

World Trade Politics
Power, Principles, and Leadership
David A. Deese

This book develops a new theoretical approach to understanding the role of leadership in trade negotiations. By examining in detail the key role of leadership in the GATT/WTO system, it offers new insights into trade bargaining from the inception of the GATT through to the current WTO Doha Round. David A. Deese makes use of an impressive range and amount of primary material on the GATT/WTO system from a variety of official sources.

The Impact of The WTO
The Environment, Public Health and Sovereignty
Trish Kelly

This volume is the first to provide a comprehensive analysis of the nine environmental and health disputes that have been adjudicated at the WTO since 1995. The investigation concludes that criticism of the WTO has been overstated and, surprisingly, nations do in fact retain sovereignty over environmental and health policy. The disputes explored suggest that the WTO has been able to balance trade, environmental and health objectives. The discussion illuminates the strengths and weaknesses of the dispute resolution process and closes with suggestions for improving it.

The WTO Building
Prepared by WTO Secretariat

The WTO Building brochure provides a fascinating insight into the artwork, architecture, and history of the Centre William Rappard, home to the World Trade Organization. The brochure describes the origins of the building, which previously housed the International Labour Organization and the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade. Lavishly illustrated, the brochure highlights the many works of art and decorative items donated by countries and institutions over the years. Stunning photographs illustrate the varied paintings, frescoes, bas-reliefs and statues housed within the Centre William Rappard. The accompanying text focuses on the architects who designed and built it and the artists who helped to create a variety of works that span several decades. This brochure reveals many hidden treasures, many of which have only recently come to light.

A Handbook on Accession to the WTO
Prepared by Peter John Williams and the WTO Accessions Division

A joint publication of the WTO and Cambridge University Press

The Handbook provides the first detailed explanation and analysis of how governments become members of the WTO. The WTO Agreement, which came into force on 1 January 1995, provides few details on how this process takes place. The steps in the detailed negotiations leading up to accession have evolved over the years through the actual process that governments have followed to become members of the WTO. This handbook provides a unique account of how the process has evolved and details exactly what is involved. The input provided by the WTO Secretariat in the preparation of the guide has resulted in the publication of information that has not been available until now to anyone outside the Secretariat. The handbook will serve as a useful source of reference for officials from acceding governments, WTO members, academia, and anyone else interested in this area.

2007 WTO Public Forum: How Can the WTO Help Harness Globalization?
Prepared by the WTO Secretariat

The second edition of the Public Forum addresses the discussions and concerns raised during the 2007 WTO Public Forum, whose theme was “How Can the WTO Help Harness Globalization?” The discussion of this topic comes at a time when many member countries are experiencing concerns regarding the impact of global trade on an already fragile environment, the present economic and trade differences between the North and the South, and the possible completion of the overdue Doha Development Round and its ensuing benefits for increased global trade. These disparate issues are organized into sub-themes of: global governance, coherence, economic growth, and sustainable development. More specific topics are also discussed, such as the ability of global trade to help reduce climate change, to create win-win situations in international trade, and to push international trade into the national development strategy. CD-ROM included.
