Welcome to the World Trade Report 2014

The World Trade Report is an annual publication that aims to deepen understanding about trends in trade, trade policy issues and the multilateral trading system.

The 2014 World Trade Report is split into two main parts. The first is a brief summary of the trade situation in 2013 and early 2014. The second part looks at recent trends in trade and development and the role of the WTO.

The World Trade Report is an annual publication that aims to deepen understanding about trends in trade, trade policy issues and the multilateral trading system.

The World Trade Report 2014 looks at how four recent major economic trends have changed how developing countries can use trade to facilitate development: the economic rise of developing economies, the growing integration of global production through supply chains, the higher prices for agricultural goods and natural resources, and the increasing interdependence of the world economy. It also looks into what role the WTO can play.

Printed copies of the Report are available from the WTO Bookshop, the WTO Online Bookshop, and through other distribution channels.
