

TRADE CAN GENERATE HIGHER STANDARDS OF LIVING, DECENT JOBS, LOWER PRICES AND MORE CHOICES FOR CONSUMERS, RESULTING IN LESS POVERTY.

WTO's Trade Facilitation Agreement allows goods to move faster across borders. This helps to reduce prices and to ensure quicker delivery of disaster relief during humanitarian crises.

Services are the leading driver of economic activity in developing countries.

The WTO's General Agreement on Trade in Services reduces discrimination between service suppliers from different countries and contributes to poverty reduction by providing greater opportunities for participation in the global economy.

Small businesses are the backbone of developing and least developed countries.

The Enhanced Integrated Framework has supported over 13,000 micro, small and medium-sized enterprises and the creation of over 31,000 jobs.
