ITALIAN SPECIAL CUSTOMS TREATMENT FOR CERTAIN LIBYAN PRODUCTS

Twelfth Annual Report (1964) Submitted by the Government of Italy

1. Under their Decision of 9 October 1952, the CONTRACTING PARTIES to the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade waived the provisions of paragraph 1 of Article I of the General Agreement to permit the Government of Italy to grant special customs treatment to certain products of Libya. This waiver was granted for the period ending 31 December 1955.

By the Decision of 25 November 1955, the CONTRACTING PARTIES extended such treatment to 31 December 1958; by the Decision of 20 November 1958, this treatment was further re-extended until 31 December 1961.

On the occasion of those two extensions, the CONTRACTING PARTIES authorized a number of modifications in addition to those already provided for under the Decision of 25 November 1955.

Lastly, by the Decision of 16 November 1961, the CONTRACTING PARTIES extended the validity of the Decision of 9 October 1952 until 31 December 1964 and specified that the situation should be reviewed at a meeting of the CONTRACTING PARTIES before the end of 1964.

Under the 1952 Decision, the Italian Government is required to submit, each year, a report on the development of trade between Italy and Libya under the special treatment thus accorded.

In compliance with this obligation, a statement on the development of such trade is submitted hereafter.

2. It seems appropriate first to outline the general evolution of trade between Italy and Libya.

The following table gives statistical data on Italy's imports from Libya and from all other third countries of products receiving special customs treatment, as well as products admitted duty free without any distinction as to origin or those subject to import duties upon admission into Italy.

As in last year's report, the three tables (annexed hereto) have been prepared in order to bring out in a clear and detailed manner the pattern and development of Italy's imports from Libya:

- Table I - Quantity and value of products to which the special customs treatment authorized by the waiver applied, imported in 1961, 1962 and 1963: (a) from all countries, (b) from Libya, (c) from principal supplier countries, with a separate breakdown for each product.
- Table II - Quantity and value of products imported duty free, regardless of consideration of origin, in 1961, 1962 and 1963: (a) from all countries, (b) from Libya, (c) from all countries excluding Libya.
- Table III - Quantity and value of dutiable products imported in 1961, 1962 and 1963: (a) from all countries, (b) from Libya, (c) from all countries excluding Libya.

3. As may be seen from Table I, Italy's imports from Libya of products receiving special customs treatment were on the whole substantially lower in 1963 than in the preceding year (1,000 million lire as compared with 1,700 million lire in 1962) but an examination of their composition shows that the falling-off was due not to any general decline in Libya's exports, but essentially to the sharp contraction in exports of olive oil to Italy, which fell from 21,423 quintals in 1962 to only 8 quintals in 1963, with a corresponding drop in value of about 760 million lire.

It should be noted that while there was some falling-off in imports of other products receiving special treatment (barley, groundnuts etc.), imports of horses and castor seeds rose appreciably in 1963.

4. As regards the other products, 1963 saw a substantial increase in Italy's imports from Libya of products admitted duty free (15,200 million lire as against 25,800 million lire in 1962) but, as may be seen from Table II, this advance is mainly attributable to larger purchases of crude petroleum oils (25,000 million lire in 1963 as compared with 14,000 million lire in 1962).

On the other hand, Italy's imports from Libya of dutiable products declined somewhat (153.6 million lire as compared with 431.7 million lire in 1962). The variations relating to the principal products are indicated in Table III.

5. Although the figures given above are in some cases less optimistic as to prospects of expanding Libya's exports to Italy, they show that on the whole the special treatment applied by Italy continues to be an instrument conducive to the development of exports from Libya to Italy. Certain Temporary fluctuations, probably attributable to adverse weather conditions, do not seem for the moment to be an element which could invalidate this assertion.

On the other hand, if one compares Italy's imports of Libyan products under special treatment with imports of the same products from third countries, it is apparent that the application of the special treatment has not, owing to its limited scope, caused any appreciable damage to the interests of other countries exporting to Italy; in 1963, imports receiving special treatment represented only 0.74 per cent of imports of the same products from third countries. It should also be noted that imports from third countries continued to rise in 1963, as may be seen from Table I.

On the basis of these considerations, the Italian Government considers, as it has already had occasion to emphasise recently in requesting an extension of the special treatment, that the maintenance of this treatment contributes effectively to the improvement of Libya's economic situation.
