GENERALIZED SYSTEM OF PREFERENCES (GSP)

This publication sets forth the following information about the GSP as of March 1, 1978:

(1) Beneficiary countries and territories, page 2;

(2) Descriptive list of eligible articles, page 3;

(3) Eligible articles for which products of certain beneficiary countries will not receive duty-free treatment by virtue of the provisions of section 504(c) of the Trade Act of 1974, the competitive-need limitations, page 54;

(4) Descriptive list of articles not produced in the United States on January 3, 1975, for which the competitive-need limitation specified in section 504(c)(1)(B) of the Trade Act of 1974 is not applicable, page 58; and

(5) Historical summary of changes in the GSP, page 61.

This publication does not have legal effect. Its purpose is to facilitate public understanding of the GSP and to supplement the information contained in the basic implementing documents.

Executive Order No. 11888, dated November 24, 1975, modified the Tariff Schedules of the United States to implement the Generalized System of Preferences (GSP) authorized by title V of the Trade Act of 1974. The Executive order designated beneficiary countries and eligible articles for the GSP. Since the GSP was implemented, it has been modified by Executive Orders Nos. 11906 (effective February 29, 1976); 11934 (effective in major part, October 1, 1976); 11974 (effective March 1, 1977); 12032 (effective January 1, 1978); and 12041 (effective March 1, 1978).¹ Products which are eligible articles and meet the conditions stipulated in title V of the Trade Act are duty free if imported into the ¹Executive Order No. 11960, issued January 19, 1977, with an effective date of March 1, 1977, was revoked by Executive Order No. 11974, which incorporated the substance of the amendments originally contained in the earlier order. FEDERAL REGISTER references for all Executive orders which have been issued on the GSP are as follows:

- E.O. 11888: 40 FR 55275, November 26, 1975
- E.O. 11906: 41 FR 8757, February 27, 1976
- E.O. 11934: 41 FR 37084, September 1, 1976
- E.O. 11960: 42 FR 4317, January 24, 1977
- E.O. 11974: 42 FR 11230A, February 28, 1977
- E.O. 12032: 42 FR 64851, December 27, 1977
- E.O. 12041: 43 FR 8099, February 25, 1978

United States directly from a beneficiary country on or after January 1, 1976.

Section 504(c) of the Trade Act provides that eligible articles will not receive duty-free treatment, however, if they are (1) the product of a beneficiary country which in the preceding calendar year accounted for 50 percent of more of total U.S. imports of the article (unless the President has determined that the article was not produced in the United States on January 3, 1975) or (2) the product of a beneficiary country which supplied imports valued at $25 million or more in the preceding year.² (This provision is referred to as the "competitive-need limitation" on GSP.) The list of beneficiary country exceptions to eligibility for particular products resulting from the provisions of section 504(c) must be updated within 60 days after the end of each calendar year.

²The figure of $25 million is to be adjusted annually by a percentage which will depend upon the percent of change in the gross national product of the United States compared with the gross national product in 1974. The figure for 1977 used to determine competitive-need limitations which became effective March 1, 1978, was $33,441,834.

ARTICLES NOT PRODUCED IN THE UNITED STATES ON JANUARY 3, 1975

Section 504(c) of the Trade Act of 1974 (48 Stat. 2070, 19 U.S.C. 2564) improves certain limits upon the extension of duty-free preferential treatment to eligible imported articles from beneficiary developing countries under the Generalized System of Preferences.

One of these limits, section 504(c)(1)(B), disqualifies from such duty-free treatment imports of an eligible article from a designated beneficiary country which supplied 30 percent more of the value of United States imports of such article from all countries during the preceding calendar year. Section 504(d) of the Trade Act, however, exempts from the limit in subsection 504(c)(1)(B) any eligible article if, like an directly competitive article was not produced in the United States on January 3, 1975, the date of enactment of the Trade Act.

In implementing the Generalized System of Preferences, the Trade Policy Staff Committee considers the following eligible articles as not being produced in the United States on January 3, 1975.
