GROUP 3(e) - BASIC DOCUMENTATION

Agricultural Policies

Addendum

YUGOSLAVIA

The Social Agreement made among the Republics and the Autonomous Regions, relating to long-term development of agriculture, provides for material means required for more rapid growth of agricultural production, having in mind that this branch has been lagging behind the development of other economic branches.

For those products that are of importance for the whole Yugoslav market, guaranteed prices, or repurchase prices are prescribed every year. They apply to the following products: wheat, maize, rice, cattle such as: fat swines, bovine, sheep, poultry, potatoes, plums or prunes, wool, cotton, hemp stems, sunflower, soya sugar beet and tobacco.

Subsidies or premiums are given only for fertilizers and milk.
