D. Non-tariff measures (see MTN.GNG/NG6/W/7/Rev.1 for details)

Amongst EEC countries, Portugal applies global quotas on roses and carnations, rose bushes and interior plants until the end of 1992.

Austrian imports of carnations from all countries are prohibited from 15 March to 30 November for phytosanitary reasons. All cut flower imports from non-European countries (except those bordering the Mediterranean) need a certificate indicating origin and also that the flowers are free from dangerous diseases and pests. In particular cases additional requirements need to be observed for certain plants.

Finland applies discretionary licensing to imports of fresh and dried cut flowers, except in the months of December, January and February. Finnish restrictions are most liberally applied in the months of March-May and October-November than in the months of June-September when domestic production is available. Norway applies seasonal global quotas to roses, carnations, freesia, daises and other chrysanthemums.

Switzerland restricts imports of fresh flowers in the summer season (1 May - 25 October) in the context of its general agricultural policy and for preserving arable land for purposes of security of food supply in an emergency situation. Basic quotas are distributed among traders on the basis of their imports during the previous year and additional quotas, having regard to their participation in the marketing of indigenous flowers.
