SYNOPTIC TABLE SETTING OUT PROPOSALS ON ENFORCEMENT AND
CORRESPONDING PROVISIONS OF EXISTING INTERNATIONAL TREATIES

Prepared by the Secretariat

Revision

1. At its meeting of 11-12 May 1989, the Negotiating Group requested the secretariat to prepare synoptic tables setting out in a comparative manner the proposals tabled in the Group on enforcement of trade-related intellectual property rights and corresponding provisions of existing international treaties. The synoptic table contained in this note is a revision of the table earlier issued in response to this request. It takes into account the additional specific proposals circulated by delegations since that document was prepared (by India, Canada and Japan).

2. The various proposals and the corresponding existing international rules on enforcement do not share a common structure. In the attached synoptic table they have been structured in four main sections. Section A, General obligations, concerns proposed obligations that unless otherwise stated would apply to enforcement procedures and remedies generally, whether internal or at the border. Section B, Internal measures, concerns enforcement procedures and remedies that apply to the internal production, sale, distribution, etc. of infringing goods. Such measures would apply to the internal sale, etc. of both domestically-produced and imported goods. In some proposals, it is stated that these "internal" procedures should also be available against the importation and maybe exportation of goods. Section C, Special requirements related to border measures, concerns special provisions which have as their basic purpose providing for action against the importation (possibly exportation and transit) of infringing goods prior to their clearance through the customs authorities. Section D concerns proposed obligations regarding the Acquisition of IPRs.

3. Under each main heading, a number of sub-headings have been employed. It should be noted that these headings and sub-headings do not generally appear in the proposals or in existing international treaties; they have been used solely with a view to assisting the user of the synoptic table and have no standing beyond that. In this revision, two new sub-headings have been included in the first section, concerning national treatment and most-favoured-nation treatment/non-discrimination. This has been done because most participants that have made proposals have addressed these matters specifically in their submissions on enforcement.

4. The synoptic table attached to this note is thus organized as follows:

5. It should be noted that in some cases the general obligation described in Section A is amplified in Sections B and C. For example, the proposed general objective and obligations concerning the avoidance of barriers to legitimate trade in A(1) and A(10) are dealt with more specifically in some parts of Sections B and C, including B(3) (conditions on provisional measures and indemnification of defendant), B(6) (indemnification of defendant), C(2)(b) (concerning parallel imports), C(4) (requirements for initiation of procedures by IPR owners) and C(5) (conditions on detention of goods by customs), as well as in other parts of Section A, such as A(4) (assurance of equitable procedures), A(10) (national treatment), A(11) (mf n treatment/non-discrimination) and A(12) (right of judicial review).

6. The first column in each table sets out the provisions of existing international treaties corresponding to the proposals made. The following points about the scope of the information contained in this column should be borne in mind:

- Only the provisions of multilateral treaties have been included. Regional or bilateral treaties have not been referred to.
- The information given refers to the most recent revision of the treaty in question.
- In order to enable the information to be presented synoptically, it has been necessary in many instances to present the existing provisions of international treaties in summary form. References have been included to the articles of the treaties in question where the full text of existing international standards can be found.

7. Information on provisions of existing international treaties relevant to enforcement can be found in the document prepared by the International Bureau of WIPO on the Existence, Scope and Form of Generally Internationally Accepted and Applied Standards/Norms for the Protection of Intellectual Property (MTN.GNG/NG11/W/24/Rev.1) under Section (8) of each of the parts dealing with different types of intellectual property right. This document also contains information on model legislations prepared by WIPO, the activities of WIPO and national policies and practices. Information can also be found in the note by the GATT secretariat on Provisions on Enforcement in International Agreements on Intellectual Property Rights (MTN.GNG/NG11/W/18).

8. The other three columns of the synoptic table set out the specific proposals by the United States (MTN.GNG/NG11/W/14/Rev.1), the European Communities (MTN.GNG/NG11/W/31) and Japan (MTN.GNG/NG11/W/17 and 43), India (MTN.GNG/NG11/W/40) and Canada (MTN.GNG/NG11/W/42). To avoid confusion, the language in these proposals has been standardized so that "signatories" refer to signatory governments of the proposed agreement and "parties" refer to private parties to an enforcement proceeding. In regard to Section D, Acquisition of IPRs, it should be noted that certain proposals corresponding to those of the European Communities reflected in this section have been presented by the United States and Japan in connection with standards for specific intellectual property rights and are reflected in the synoptic tables in document MTN.GNG/NG11/W/32/Rev.1. Canada has also indicated that, in its proposals, this subject will be dealt with as a matter of standards.

9. In regard to the Indian proposal, it should be noted that this is limited to internal enforcement of intellectual property rights. The Indian proposals on enforcement at the border have been presented under the agenda item on trade in counterfeit goods, in document MTN.GNG/NG11/W/41. The Canadian proposal contains two main parts: a set of basic principles; and an annex containing Canada's more detailed views on the specific issues covered in the synoptic table, submitted inter alia to assist the Negotiating Group in addressing the level of detail appropriate for enforcement provisions. The proposed basic principles are reproduced without square brackets, whereas the more detailed views are those within square brackets.

10. In addition to the three proposals listed, it is recalled that a number of other suggestions, not amenable to presentation in the synoptic table, have been made relevant to enforcement, including those presented in writing by the Nordic countries (MTN.GNG/NG11/W/22), Switzerland (MTN.GNG/NG11/W/25), Thailand (MTN.GNG/NG11/W/27) and Brazil (MTN.GNG/NG11/W/30). It should also be noted that the synoptic table does not reflect suggestions made under the agenda item on trade in counterfeit goods, for example those contained in documents MTN.GNG/NG11/W/9 (Draft Agreement to Discourage the Importation of Counterfeit Goods), MTN.GNG/NG11/W/11 (by Brazil)¹, MTN.GNG/NG11/W/28 (by Mexico), MTN.GNG/NG11/W/41 (by India).

11. The Swiss proposal, like those of the United States, European Communities and Japan, suggests specific international obligations on enforcement that should result from the work of the Group. It will be recalled that, in connection with enforcement, the commitments proposed by Switzerland are as follows:

¹ It will, however, be noted that the content of the Brazilian suggestion, which is that countries sign the WIPO Madrid Agreement for the Repression of False or Deceptive Indications of Source on Goods, is reflected in column one of the synoptic table under "corresponding provisions of existing international treaties".

- A recognition that excessive, insufficient, or lack of protection as well as discriminatory treatment of intellectual property rights by contracting parties may cause nullification and impairment of advantages under the GATT. Such impairment and nullification may be caused both by substantive and procedural deficiencies.
- A commitment to avoid trade distortions caused either by excessive, insufficient, or lack of protection of intellectual property rights, inter alia of patents, trademarks, industrial designs, geographical indications, integrated circuits, copyright, and neighbouring rights; and a commitment to prevent counterfeiting and piracy.
- An amendment to Article XX (d) of the GATT as follows:

"(d) necessary to secure compliance with laws or regulations which are not inconsistent with the provisions of this Agreement, including those relating to customs enforcement, the enforcement of monopolies operated under paragraph 4 of Article II and Article XVII, the protection of intellectual property rights, and the prevention of deceptive practices".
- A commitment to provide full and prompt application and implementation of domestic laws and regulations related to the protection of intellectual property rights, including to maintain or institute judicial or administrative tribunals or non-discriminatory procedures for the prompt review of trade distorting practices related to such laws and regulations.
- The elaboration of indicative lists, indicating trade distorting effects caused by either excessive, insufficient or lack of protection of intellectual property rights, including practices and procedural deficiencies. These would establish prima facie nullification and impairment of advantages and benefits accruing from the General Agreement.

The Swiss proposal, like those of some other participants, also contains a national treatment and mfn/non-discrimination obligation.

12. The Nordic paper stresses the need for particular attention to principles such as non-discrimination and national treatment. It also says that different types of enforcement mechanisms (border measures, administrative arrangements and court procedures) are likely to have different applicability in respect of the various IPRs, in particular that the determination of infringement may require somewhat different procedures and provisions, depending on the IPR in question. The Thai statement urges that the following elements should be incorporated into the enforcement mechanism contemplated:

- The enforcement procedures should lead to further liberalisation. They should not themselves become barriers or means of harassment of legitimate trade or lead to excessive protection that obstructs technology transfer.
- The procedures should reflect the genuine intention and obligations of individual contracting parties to provide due process of law. However, this does not imply that harmonisation of national laws is required.
- The procedures should afford the maximum degree of transparency.

The Brazilian paper suggests that the Group should pay due attention to problems arising from the excessive and rigid enforcement of IPRs, including to cases where enforcement of IPRs becomes a barrier or harassment to legitimate trade.

13. Many participants have, of course, expressed their views orally at meetings of the Group since the April 1989 TNC decision. These views are recorded in documents MTN.GNG/NG11/12, in particular paragraphs 10-22, and MTN.GNG/NG11/13, in particular paragraphs 16-32. The views expressed at the meeting of 11-13 September will be recorded in MTN.GNG/NG11/15 which will be issued shortly.

14. The following are the full titles of the international treaties referred to in column one of the table:

- Paris Convention for the Protection of Industrial Property (WIPO) (1883, revised 1900, 1911, 1925, 1934, 1958 and 1967, and amended 1979);

(MTN.GNG/NG11/W/42)

[Enforcement procedures should be implemented in a manner to minimize interference with legitimate trade. In particular, any alleged infringement or other violation of an IPR relating to the importation of goods or services originating in the territory of another party should be adjudicated through proceedings no less favourable than those applicable to goods or services in the domestic territory.]

Complainants in actions where imported goods are concerned should not have the option to initiate proceedings in judicial or administrative forums if comparable options do not exist for complainants in disputes involving domestically produced goods and services.]

(11) NATIONAL TREATMENT

Corresponding Provisions of Existing
International Treaties

The Paris Convention obliges each of its member States to grant to nationals of the other member States, as well as nationals of non-member States who are domiciled or who have real and effective industrial or commercial establishments in the territory of one of the other member States, the same legal remedies for infringement of industrial property rights as those it grants to its own nationals, possibly subject to the provisions of national law relating to judicial and administrative procedure and to jurisdiction (Articles 2 and 3).

Provisions requiring contracting parties to grant national treatment to nationals of other contracting parties (and certain other persons) are also contained in the Berne Convention (Articles 3 to 5), Universal Copyright Convention (Article II), Rome Convention (Articles 2, 4, 5 and 6) and Treaty on Intellectual Property in Respect of Integrated Circuits (Article 5). The latter Treaty allows for an exception as far as any obligations to appoint an agent or to designate an address for service are concerned or as far as the special rules applicable to foreigners in court proceedings are concerned.

The General Agreement requires that the products of the territory of any contracting party imported into the territory of any other contracting party shall be accorded treatment no less favourable than that accorded to like products of national origin in respect of all laws, regulations and requirements affecting their internal sale, offering for sale, purchase, transportation, distribution or use (Article III:4). However, a general exception allows any contracting party to adopt or enforce measures necessary to secure compliance with laws or regulations which are not inconsistent with the provisions of the General Agreement, including those related to the protection of patents, trademarks and copyrights, and the prevention of deceptive practices, subject to the requirements that such measures are not supplied in a manner which would constitute a means of arbitrary or unjustifiable discrimination between countries where the same conditions prevail or a disguised restriction on trade (Article XX(d)).

United States
(MTN.GNG/NG11/W/14/Rev.1)

- The complex question of national treatment will need to be addressed.

India
(MTN.GNG/NG11/W/40)

- The procedures for internal enforcement shall provide for national treatment to foreign owners of IPRs.

European Communities

(MTN.GNG/NG11/W/31)

- Without prejudice to the provisions on national treatment provided for in the Paris Convention and the revised Berne Convention, the procedures shall be formulated and applied so as to provide nationals of other signatories with respect to the protection of IPRs the advantages that the respective laws now grant, or may hereafter grant, to nationals, without prejudice to the rights specially provided for by this agreement. Nationals of other countries who are domiciled or who have real and effective industrial or commercial establishments in the territory of one of the signatories shall be treated in the same manner as nationals of the signatories. The provisions of the national laws relating to jurisdiction, the language of the proceedings, the designation of an address for service or the appointment of an agent, or to the provision of securities are reserved, provided that they are not applied as a means of arbitrary discrimination between nationals of the signatory in question and those of other signatories.

- The criteria applied in reaching a decision whether an IPR is infringed shall not discriminate between domestic goods and services, and goods and services which are imported or destined for importation. The procedures and remedies applied shall accord treatment to imported goods and services no less favourable than that accorded to domestically produced goods and services. Article XX(d) of the GATT shall apply accordingly.

Canada

(MTN.GNG/NG11/W/42)

- Procedures and remedies for enforcing IPRs provided to persons, goods and services of all other parties should be no less favourable than those provided to its own persons, goods or services, i.e. national treatment.

[Signatories should provide procedures and remedies for enforcing IPRs to persons, goods or services of the other signatories, no less favourable than those accorded to its own persons, goods or services.]

Japan

(MTN.GNG/NG11/W/17 and 43)

- It is important that the national treatment principle be applied also to the enforcement of IPRs.

(12) MOST-FAVoured-NATION TREATMENT/NON-DISCRIMINATION

Corresponding Provisions of Existing
International Treaties

The General Agreement requires that with respect to all rules and formalities in connection with importation and exportation, and with respect to all matters referred to in paragraphs 2 and 4 of Article III, any advantage, favour, privilege or immunity granted by any contracting party to any product originating in or destined for any other country shall be accorded immediately and unconditionally to the like product originating in or destined for the territories of all other contracting parties (Article I:1). However, a general exception allows any contracting party to adopt or enforce measures necessary to secure compliance with laws or regulations which are not inconsistent with the provisions of the General Agreement, including those related to the protection of patents, trademarks and copyrights, and the prevention of deceptive practices, subject to the requirement that such measures are not applied in a manner which would constitute a means of arbitrary or unjustifiable discrimination between countries where the same conditions prevail or a disguised restriction on trade (Article XX(d)).

United States

(MTN.GNG/NG11/W/14/Rev.1)

- This complex question will need to be addressed.

India

(MTN.GNG/NG11/W/40)

European Communities
(MTN.GNG/NG11/W/31)

- Procedures and remedies applied by a signatory for the purpose of enforcing intellectual property rights shall not constitute a means of arbitrary or unjustifiable discrimination between nationals of other signatories, or a disguised restriction to international trade.

Japan
(MTN.GNG/NG11/W/17 and 43)

- It is important that this principle be applied also to the enforcement of IPRs.

Canada
(MTN.GNG/NG11/W/42)

- Procedures and remedies for enforcing IPRs provided to persons, goods or services of one signatory to a TRIPS agreement, should be equally applicable to the persons, goods or services of any other signatory to the agreement, i.e. unconditional and non-discriminatory treatment.

[Signatories should provide procedures and remedies for enforcing IPRs to persons, goods or services of all other parties, equally applicable to the persons, goods or services of any party.]

(13) REMEDIES AND SANCTIONS

Corresponding Provisions of Existing
International Treaties

See A(1) above.

United States
(MTN.GNG/NG11/W/14/Rev.1)

- Enforcement measures and sanctions must effectively deter infringing activity. Thus, signatories should undertake obligations to provide procedures to enforce rights against entities engaged in infringing activities and to provide appropriate remedies. In appropriate cases, this must include criminal sanctions.

- Sanctions and remedies shall be available against the producer, seller, distributor and in appropriate cases the user of an infringing good or service. Remedies against signatories, however, may be limited to payment of compensation to the owner of the IPR.

India
(MTN.GNG/NG11/W/40)

- Relief resulting from internal procedures shall include administrative and civil remedies and, in appropriate cases, penalties under criminal law.

European Communities
(MTN.GNG/NG11/W/31)

- Signatories shall provide for remedies which effectively stop or prevent the infringement of IPRs, entitle the right holder to claim compensation of the injury caused by the infringement, and which consist of other measures which, while corresponding to the importance of the infringement in question, constitute an effective deterrent to further infringements.

Japan
(MTN.GNG/NG11/W/17 and 43)

- See B(4), B(5) and C(8) below.

Canada
(MTN.GNG/NG11/W/42)

- There should be judicial and/or administrative civil remedies which effectively stop or prevent the infringement of IPRs, and entitle the rights holders to claim compensation for the injury caused by the infringement. Criminal sanctions and penalties for trademark counterfeiting and copyright piracy if committed wilfully and for commercial purposes also need to be provided for.

[Signatories should provide for remedies which effectively stop or prevent the infringement of IPRs, and entitle the right holder to compensation for the injury caused by the infringement. In appropriate cases, damages should be available to deprive the infringer of any profit and to deter further infringement. Signatories should provide criminal remedies at least for trademark counterfeiting and copyright piracy if done in a wilful and commercial manner.]

(14) RIGHT OF JUDICIAL REVIEW

Corresponding Provisions of Existing
International Treaties

United States
(MTN.GNG/NG11/W/14/Rev.1)

India
(MTN.GNG/NG11/W/40)

- Internal enforcement procedures shall provide for appeal against the initial judicial order and for judicial review of administrative orders.

European Communities
(MTN.GNG/NG11/W/31)

- Final administrative decisions on the merits of a case concerning the protection of an IPR shall be subject to the right of appeal in a court of law.

Japan
(MTN.GNG/NG11/W/17 and 43)

- Final administrative disposition shall be subject to the right of judicial review.

Canada
(MTN.GNG/NG11/W/42)

[Signatories should provide the right of appeal to a court of law of initial judicial decisions on the merits of a case and final administrative decisions on the merits of a case. The court of appeal should be entitled to consider and review all legal issues raised before or considered by the previous court or administrative tribunal and should also be entitled to review issues of procedural fairness.]

Corresponding Provisions of Existing International Treaties

The enforcement provisions of the Paris Convention concern goods unlawfully bearing a trademark or trade name or in connection with which a false indication of the source of the goods or the identity of the producer, manufacturer or merchant has been directly or indirectly used. Remedies are provided for applying within the country as well as on importation. Goods in transit are specifically excluded from any obligation to effect seizure (Articles 9, 10 and 10~~ter~~). Acts of unfair competition are also covered by enforcement provisions of the Paris Convention (Articles 10~~bis~~ and 10~~ter~~).

The Madrid Agreement (Indications of Source) concerns goods having a false or deceptive indication by which one of the member States, or a place situated therein, is directly or indirectly indicated as being the country or place of origin. Remedies are provided for applying within the country as well as on importation; goods in transit are excluded from any obligation to effect seizure (Articles 1 and 2).

The Berne Convention provisions on enforcement concern the seizure of infringing copies of protected works. The remedy provided for applies in the country, in respect of infringing copies both produced in the country and imported (including from countries where the work is not protected or has ceased to be protected) (Article 16). Musical recordings made under a compulsory licence granted by a member State are liable to seizure if imported without permission into another member State (Article 13(3)).

United States (MTN.GNG/NG11/W/14/Rev.1)

(2) STANDING TO INITIATE PROCEDURES

Corresponding Provisions of Existing
International Treaties

Article 9 of the Paris Convention states that seizure of goods unlawfully bearing a trademark or trade name shall take place at the request of the public prosecutor, or any other competent authority, or any interested party, whether a natural person or a legal entity, in conformity with the domestic legislation of each country. Article 10, which applies the provisions of Article 9 to false indications of source, states that any producer, manufacturer, or merchant, whether a natural person or a legal entity, engaged in the production or manufacture of or trade in such goods and established either in the locality falsely indicated as the source, or in the region where such locality is situated, or in the country falsely indicated, or in the country where the false indication of source is used, shall in any case be deemed an interested party. Article 10^{ter} obliges member States to provide measures to permit federations and associations representing interested industrialists, producers, or merchants, provided that the existence of such federations and associations is not contrary to the laws of their countries, to take action in the courts or before the administrative authorities, with a view to the repression of the acts referred to in Articles 9 and 10, and also acts of unfair competition referred to in Article 10^{bis}, in so far as the law of the country in which protection is claimed allows such action by federations and associations of that country.

The Berne Convention establishes a presumption of authorship; the author must, in the absence of proof to the contrary, be regarded as such, and consequently be entitled to institute infringement proceedings in the countries of the Union, if his name appears on the work in a usual manner; film producers whose names appear on films enjoy a similar presumption (Article 15).

Under the Lisbon Agreement, legal action required for ensuring the protection of appellations of origin may be taken in each of the member States under the provisions of the national legislation either at the instance of the competent Office or at the request of the public prosecutor, or by any interested party, whether a natural person or a legal entity, whether public or private (Article 8).

For Madrid Agreement (Indications of Source), see Section C(3) below.

United States
(MTN.GNG/NG11/W/14/Rev.1)

- Procedures must be available to owners of IPRs and other persons authorized by the owner and having legal standing to determine the validity and enforceability of IPRs for the assertion of such rights against any legal or juridical person or governmental entity.
- Governments should initiate procedures ex officio where effective enforcement requires such action.

India
(MTN.GNG/NG11/W/40)

- Seeking recourse to the remedies that may be available under the national law is primarily the responsibility of the owner of IPRs. It is for him to set in motion the enforcement machinery and this responsibility cannot be shifted to the government.

- Right holders. The term "right holder" means the right holder himself, any other person authorized by him or persons having legal standing under national law to assert such rights.

Corresponding Provisions of Existing

Articles 9 and 10 of the Paris Convention provide for remedies in respect of goods unlawfully bearing trademarks or trade names or in connection with which a false indication of source has been directly or indirectly used. Certain of these remedies concern action at the border; for details see Section C (8) below. Other remedies concern action in the country. The goods in question must be seized in the country, whether it is the country in which the unlawful affixation took place or country into which the goods have been imported. If the country's legislation does not permit such seizure, then, until such time as the legislation is modified accordingly, these measures shall be replaced by the actions and remedies available in such cases to nationals under the law of that country.

The Madrid Agreement (Indications of Source) contains a similar hierarchy of remedies, with the additional requirement that, in the absence of special sanctions ensuring the prevention of false or misleading indications of source, the sanctions provided by the corresponding stipulations of the laws relating to trademarks or trade names shall be applicable (Article 1).

- There should be interim procedures: (a) to allow the courts to direct customs authorities to detain counterfeit or pirated goods, or (b) to allow interim detention by customs of such items, subject to appropriate safeguards. Such measures should not be applied in a manner which would constitute a disguised restriction on international trade.

[Signatories should provide for interim judicial measures to allow the courts to direct customs authorities to detain counterfeit or pirated goods or they should provide for interim detention by customs as provided by this section. Signatories may also provide for the detention or prohibition of other types of infringing goods.]

Any procedure to allow customs authorities to detain or prohibit any type of infringing good without a court order should conform to the rules set out in this section.

Where signatories allow the right holder to initiate detention, they should establish procedures according to which a right holder may lodge an application in writing with competent authorities for the suspension by the customs of the release into free circulation of suspected counterfeit or pirated goods.]

Definitions

COUNTERFEIT GOODS should mean -

PIRATED GOODS should mean -any goods which are copies made without the consent of the rights holder or person duly authorised by him in the country of production and which are made directly or indirectly from an article where the making of that copy constitutes an infringement of a copyright under legislation in the country of importation.]

instance of the customs authorities, which must immediately inform the interested party, desires, take appropriate steps in connection

(8) REMEDY

Corresponding Provisions of Existing
International Treaties

In regard to goods unlawfully bearing protected trademarks or trade names or in connection with which a false indication of source has been directly or indirectly used, the Paris Convention contains an obligation to seize them on importation if a country's legislation permits such seizure. If this is not the case, the country in question must replace this by prohibition of importation or seizure inside the country. However, the Paris Convention allows that even these replacement measures might not exist and, if this is the case, until such time as the legislation of a country is modified accordingly, these replacement measures shall be substituted by the actions and remedies available in such cases to nationals under the law of such country (Articles 9 and 10).

The Madrid Agreement (Indications of Source) contains a similar hierarchy of remedies, with the additional requirement that in the absence of any special sanctions ensuring the prevention of false or misleading indications of source, the sanctions provided by the corresponding stipulations of the laws relating to marks or trade names shall be applicable (Article 1).

- Where the action is initiated by an application from a right holder:
Without prejudice to the other rights of action open to the right holder, and subject to the right of the defendant to lodge an appeal to the judicial authorities, the competent authorities shall, as a general rule and in accordance with the relevant provisions of national law, and where this would not be out of proportion to the infringement in question, provide for the forfeiture of the infringing goods and destroy them or dispose of them outside the channels of commerce in such a way as to minimize harm to the right holder without compensation of any sort. They may in respect of such goods take any other measures having the effect of effectively depriving those responsible for the infringement of the economic benefits of their activity and constituting an effective deterrent to further activities of the same kind. Other than in exceptional cases, with regard to counterfeit goods the simple removal of the trademarks affixed without authorization shall not be regarded as having such effect. The authorities shall not order the re-exportation of the goods in an unaltered state or subject them to a different customs procedure.

- Where the action is initiated by customs on their own initiative:
Without prejudice to the other rights of action open to the right holder and subject to the right of the defendant to lodge an appeal to the competent judicial authorities, signatories shall, where this would not be out of proportion to the infringement in question, for example in cases of deliberate and flagrant infringements, provide for the forfeiture of the goods thus detained by the customs authorities and for their destruction or disposal outside the channels of commerce in such a manner as to minimize harm to the right holder.
